WILLIAM N. STOKES.

A Prominent and Well to do Farmer and Trader of Russell County, Drops Dead.

A SERIOUS LOSS TO HIS NATIVE COUNTY

The people of Columbia were greatly surprised last Wednesday forenoon when they learned of the death of William N. Stokes, who resided at Horse Shoe Bottom, Russell county, six miles from Jamestown, had dropped dead at his home Tuesday afternoon about 1 o'clock. He was a prominent farmer and trader and was well-known throughout Russell county. He was close to seventy years of age and many years ago he represented Casey and Russell counties in the Kentucky Legislature. He was an ardent Democrat and took a great interest in county politics. He was a man of high character and will be greatly missed in the neighborhood where he so long resided.

Many years ago he made a profession of his faith in Christ, united with the Presbyterian Church, living a consistent member until the end. In October last Presbytery was held in Columbia, and Mr. Stokes and his wife were here as delegates, making their home with Mrs. Nannie Flowers.

The deceased was also a member of the Masonic Fraternity, and was double buried with the usual formalities of the order.

Christmas at Presbyterian Church.

An appropriate recognition of the Christmas tide will be observed at the Presbyterian church next Sabbath. All the regular members of the Sunday school that are present at the usual hour for the school are to be remembered in a generous and substantial treat. A member of the school is asked for a "Christmas gift" to the cause of Missions.

At the eleven o'clock hour the pastor will give a Xmas meditation and special music will be rendered in keeping with the occasion. The offering for the day will be made for Foreign Missions. An average of one dollar per member of the congregation is asked for. The pastors evening theme will be, "Ring out the old Ring in the New." A cordial invitation to all to attend these services.

Anti Saloon League Meeting

Although the town was in darkness on Sunday night, owing to a break down in the electric light plant, the Presbyterian church house was comfortably filled with worshippers. The special service was a mass meeting uniting the local churches in behalf of the cause of temperance. Dr. T. S. Buckingham, Louisville, Ky., State organizer of the Anti Saloon League and editor of The Kentucky Issue, official organ of the League, made the address of the evening. His arrangement of the liquid refreshments, which failed to attract the statistics, that carried conviction to all hearts. He most graphically portrayed the successful fight that is carried on by the Anti Saloon League and gave ample reason why temperance must ultimately win over intemperance. While he spoke hopefully for additional temperance measures to be proposed to the forthcoming State Legislature, he did not encourage the belief that we are yet ready for state wide prohibition. Dr. Buckingham's visit doubtless made many new friends to the cause and we should gladly welcome him again.

By Fred McLean D. C.

Mr. J. M. Campbell, an excellent gentleman, a well-known citizen of this county, who was a general merchant at Pelyton for quite a number of years, has accepted a position with Floyd & Bohr Co., wholesale dealers in hardware, saddlery and harness, Louisville. Mr. Campbell has this section of the State, and he is to represent it. He represents a good house and he makes his merchant friends in all the adjoining counties to wait for his coming. He has the goods and prices to suit.

New Year Greeting.

To our friends and patrons in Adair and adjoining Counties,

We certainly feel very grateful indeed to our many friends and patrons in and adjoining counties who have contributed so largely by their liberal patronage and words of praise to the wonderful success of our consolidated business in the past year, and want to thank you, one and all through the good old reliable Adair County News which we feed and grow has been instrumental with its popularity and large circulation in enabling us to do the enormous amount of business which has far exceeded our most sanguine expectation.

Like the T. W. Buchanan Hardware and Implement Co., and the Lyon Buggy Co., have received a very liberal patronage in this territory for several years past, and while we felt confident with the two above named firms consolidated and incorporated with us, to do the same for T. W. Buchanan, Lyon Co., Wholesale and Retail, would enable us to buy in larger quantities, ship in carload lots, thereby saving our customers money on our entire line.

It affords us great pleasure to announce at this the close of the first year's business for the new Company, that it has been a success far beyond our most sanguine hopes or expectation, which give us increased courage and determination to begin the new year 1910 determined to make it a banner year. We have made large contracts for hardware, lumber, etc., and the participation of the already heavy advancement on every thing made from leather, iron or wood with still larger advances predicted by all the leading Manufacturers in the country owing to the extreme high price prevailing in new material.

Notwithstanding these heavy advances with the advance contracts we have made, it will enable us to sell our customers and friends the coming season at practically old prices and more.

As quite a number of our friends in the retail merchants throughout our territory know we have been in position for some time past, saved them not only freight, but considerably in the price also on such lines as Collar pads, collars, wagons, harness, buggy harness, saddles &c., over prices charged by manufacturers and Jobbers in the cities.

It affords us a great deal of pleasure to announce to our old customers among the retail merchants, and we hope a large number of new ones that we will be able to supply them at lower prices than they freight also in most cases considerable in price on anything in the implement line, and it goes without saying that we have the best lines manufactured in the United States, as our Mr. T. W. Buchanan having had practically 30 years experience in this line and knows what gives the farmers the best and most reliable service. Also Hardware, auto parts, granite ware, roofing, shingles, buggies and wagons. The old reliable hardware men, have stood the test for 40 years, is being made to day better than ever.

Wishing you all a happy and prosperous New Year and assuring you we will at all times endeavor to give you the best value both in retail or wholesale for the least money to be found anywhere, and we trust you will continue to give us a liberal share of your patronage and good wishes.

Yours for Business,
The Buchanan, Lyon Co.,
Incorporated, Campbellsville.

The Judge was honored with a banquet by the bar, resolutions of endorsement passed and many touching speeches made. A full account of the banquet will probably be sent the News for publication.

Mr. Upton Grider, who has been absent from Adair county for the past four years, returned to his home, at Craycraft, a few days ago. WANTED—Lady distributor and solicitor in Columbia, Dr. W. E. Burkhardt, Cincinnati, O.

Dr. E. A. Waggener.

It will be gratifying to his many friends to know that Dr. E. A. Waggener, who came to Columbia about ten months ago, to make this place his permanent home, was, last week, by the unanimous vote of the State Board of Health, granted a certificate to practice his profession throughout Kentucky. It is known that Dr. Waggener is an experienced qualified surgeon and physician, but has been living in the West for a good many years, it was necessary for him to have his diploma examined by the State Board, he having graduated from the University of Louisville; Bellevue College, New York City; Prof. Loomis' Clinical School of Bellevue Hospital. He had also taken two post-graduate courses.

Now while standing he had all these documents of qualification to show the Board to act. However, wanted to comply with the rules governing the organization, and he is fully satisfied with the result. His old friend, Dr. U. Montgomery, a native of Adair county, but who practices in Louisville, accompanied Dr. Waggener before the Board, and his statement and the papers presented were all that was necessary. Dr. Waggener considers that the Board passed a high compliment upon him when it voted unanimously to make him a certificate of qualifications. Dr. Waggener has been a specialist for twelve years, and is not his purpose to interfere with the practice of other physicians. The question may occur, why does a physician of Dr. Waggener's qualifications want to locate in Columbia. It is a matter of health. When he came here his physical condition was such that he did not know that he would ever be able to practice. Having almost recovered his health, and attributing his improvement to this climate, he has concluded to remain. Besides, he did not come here a total stranger. He was partly reared in Columbia and here and in the county he has many relatives.

W. G. Field Dead.

The following account of the death of Dr. W. G. Field, who was born and reared in Columbia, and who was well known throughout Adair county, is taken from a Gainesville, Texas paper. His death occurred on the 4th of this month. His wife was Miss Bette Price, a sister of Mr. R. H. Price. He was married in Columbia a few years before going to Texas. His wife died about two years ago.

He was stricken with paralysis last Wednesday, W. G. Field died Saturday night at the home of his sister, Mrs. Price, on North Morris street, aged 72 years.

The deceased was born in Columbia, Ky., came to Texas about 30 years ago, and since that time he has been a resident of both this city and Cleburne.

For a number of years, he was a practicing physician, but later on account of failing health he was compelled to abandon his medical career and engage in a less strenuous life.

Surviving Mr. Field are a son, P. J. of Cleburne, and Miss Bertha, of this city, a brother, Dr. G. S. Field and a sister, Mrs. Price, of this city.

The remains were sent yesterday afternoon to Cleburne, accompanied by the relatives where interment took place today.

Judge R. B. Dohoney Dead.

The subject of this notice died at his home, near Glasgow, Friday, the 12th of December. His remains were forwarded to Edmonton, where he was buried. He was born and reared in Mill Creek, and was seventy-five years old when death came. He was a lawyer and lived and practiced his profession at Edmonton for many years. He was three times elected County Judge of Metcalfe county, making a most excellent official. The deceased was a life member of the Knights of Columbus.

He was a son of Payton Dohoney. Besides his immediate family, he leaves many relatives in Adair county.

Mr. R. G. Woods, who has been the cashier of the Bank of Russell Springs since its organization, has tendered his resignation and will be succeeded by Mr. Robert Ingram, of Willitsburg. Mr. Woods and family will leave Russell Springs, he having accepted a more lucrative position, as he is a very excellent citizen and has a most estimable wife. Mr. Woods has been a highly accomplished and polite at all times.

He and his wife will leave Russell Springs with the best wishes of the entire community.

Our fruits will be in this week. We will have a nice stock for Christmas. Don't forget us.

Bear Visits the Home of Sidney Holt

Mr. Sidney Holt and family, who live near Esto, Russell county, are satisfied that they entertained a bear one night last week.

The half door leading to an upstairs room was left open unintentionally. Some time during the night a bear, Mr. Holt and family declare that there can be no mistake about it, visited the premises. It entered the room and went into a vacant room at the head of the steps. In the room was a bed, a number of pictures hanging on the walls and also a dress belonging to Mrs. Holt. During the night Mr. Holt heard noise in the room, discovered all the pictures torn from the walls and the prints of bear claws could be plainly seen. Mrs. Holt's dress was also torn into strings. Turning to the bed, it showed plainly that it had been slept on and there were bear hairs on the bedding.

The intruder had gone several hours when Mr. Holt got up, and having no dogs, made no effort to track it, but he is fully convinced that he entered the house.

We understand that bears, known to be in the hills of Cumberland county, and it is believed that this one came from that section.

Eloped to Indiana.

Last Thursday night Mr. Finis Allen, son of Mr. Welby Allen, who lives at Anson, Kansas, and Miss Maud Henson, daughter of Mr. J. W. Henson, Perryton, this county, eloped to Indiana where there they were married. Immediately after the rites were solemnized the couple started for Kansas, the home of the groom's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Allen have the best wives of their many Adair county friends.

A few weeks ago we sat in front of a local pastor in this place and heard him picture as ingrate. Said he: "In my judgment the meanest person who lives in the one who forgets friendship bestowed when that friendship was sadly destroyed." We know a few persons who do not live for self, persons who at all times have been willing to aid a friend in distress; and we have seen the persons aided turn the cold shoulder to their benefactors—forget that while in the ditch they were lifted out. Was what the preacher said stated too strongly?

The Columbia Graded School will close for the holidays next Thursday afternoon. It will open promptly Monday, January 3. All the teachers will spend Christmas at their respective homes, excepting Mrs. Gibson who will remain here. There will be no change in the school work at the beginning of the New Year.

The Court-house, inside and out, looks as attractive as it did the day it was built. This is the only skylit. Mr. Fred Morgan and Mr. J. A. Young, who recently painted it in a workman like manner. These gentlemen are artists in their line, never leaving a job until it is finished to the satisfaction of the owners of the property, their work at all times receiving favorable comments from observers.

Rev. John S. Keen, who was the founder of the Highview school in Clinton county, well-known in Adair county, being a brother-in-law of Gov. J. B. Hindman, died in St. Louis recently. He was fifty-one years old, and at the time of his illness he was engaged in mission work. He often preached at Columbia.

Sale of Pooled Tobacco Off.

Press dispatches from Lexington report that the deal which has been pending for some weeks between the Burley Tobacco Society and some New York parties for the sale of the 1909 pooled crop of Burley, has been declared off. It is stated that an agreement has been reached and the contract drawn for the sale of the entire 1909 crop of pooled tobacco at $17,00 per hundred. After the Committee had returned to Lexington and the parties were about to sign the contract, the representative of the New York parties received a telegram directing him not to sign the contract.

No explanation of the back-draw is given. It is hinted, however, that the prospective purchaser was a syndicate of independent buyers and that the American Tobacco Company got wind of the deal and immediately got busy and bought of the prospective buyer or otherwise blocked the deal.

Skim milk and the Pigs.

Where dairies or butter factories are, or where the milk cow is a factor for other purposes than the sale of milk as such, the pig is a most useful and profitable adjunct. Upon the skim milk, judiciously used with other and more substantial foods, he thrives, grows and fattens, utilizing a by-product of tremendous volume which without the pig would represent little of available value. It is said that the skim milk from the butter factories of New York alone amounts to nearly a billion pounds in a single year. The use of this skim milk does much to give relief from monotony so common in the hog's feeding, besides adding to the returns from the other or main foods with which it is given, and every hog-raiser is glad to have it.—From Coburn's "Swine in America."

The Chicago Drovers' Journal says: "The horse is recovering his popularity and prestige for pleasure use, if an observer will note that on the boulevards and parkways of Chicago there are more elegant turnout drawn by horses than a year ago, and more of the leisure class are to be seen in the parks on horseback. The demand for gaited saddlers is much more urgent than a year ago, and well mannered saddle horses are moving at $300 to $1,000."

Too many farmers know little or nothing in regard to the relative profits from the individual cows in their herds. Yet to make the dairy farm what it should be this is absolutely necessary. If they will seriously consider the subject they will soon conclude that the pleasure of milking and feeding a cow twice each day and otherwise caring for her is not sufficient compensation for the labor.

Rich Men's Gifts Are Poor

beside this: "I want to go record as saying that I regard Executive Bitters as one of the greatest gifts that God has made to woman, writes Mrs. O. Rhinevult, of Vestal Center, N. Y., "I can never forget what it has done for me." This glorious medicine gives a woman spirit, vigor and body a jubilant heart. It quickly cures Nervousness, Spleenitis, Melancholy, Headache, Backache, Fainting and Dizzy Spells; soon builds up the weak, ailing and sickly. Try them. See at Paul Drug Co.

Quick Biscuits.

One quart of flour, one cup and a half of milk, one cup and a half of water, one tablespoonful of mixed butter and lard, one heaping teaspoonful of baking powder, half a teaspoonful of salt. Sift the salt with the flour, chop in the butter and lard, add the baking powder and the milk and water, and mix to a soft dough. Handle as little as possible. Roll out in sheets an inch thick, cut into rounds and bake in a well floured pan.

Contrasts of North and South.

In the south they lynch the man who has committed crime in an orderly manner and then the Lynchers disperse in a quiet way; in the north they often lynch the wrong man first and then kill a number of innocent persons in their effort to find the right man. The lynching fever seems to be moving northward, a thing to be deplored, since the virulence of the germ becomes greater as it proceeds toward cooler climates.—Drovers' Journal.

One should choose his sows from a breed that is long bodied, roomy in her build, and prolific.

You want a large number of pigs to the litter and you want them to have plenty of milk, so pick a sow that will give both. Then cross her with a boar of a compact, easy fattening, quickly maturing type, and these characteristics will appear in the offspring to a marked degree if the breeds are well suited for mating.

Bad roads are an extravagance that no farming community can afford. Just what they cost in unnecessary expense it takes but a moment to determine. A team and driver are reasonably worth $3 a day, and by the use of these it is possible to deliver to market from your home 100 bushels of corn. Hauling over good roads, the cost of delivery is 3 cents per bushel. But if, in consequence of bad roads, but 50 bushels can be delivered, the cost is doubled and the difference is what the impassable roads cost you. Continue this calculation, applying it to the hauling of all your crops, and it quickly becomes apparent that it amounts to a very burdensome tax. Good roads help in every way; they promote sociability by making friends and relatives accessible, and by means of them it is easier to reach the schools and churches and to generally do and enjoy the things which make life really worth living.—Exchange.

That Composer Again.

There is trouble between the proprietor of the Daily Trumpet, published in Slowing, and one of the prominent citizens of the town.

The citizen is Orlando Vance Jones, who writes occasional verses for the "Poet's Corner."

The trouble arose soon after the birth of Mr. Jones' grandson. Being much gratified by the resemblance to him which many of the diplomatic mothers in Slowing detected in the features of Orlando Vance third, Mr. Jones composed a tender poem which he entitled "A Pigmy Counterpart."

When he opened the paper, of which he had ordered a dozen copies, he saw at the head of the column his poem under the title, "A Pig My Counterpart."

Saved Long For Divorce.

Hopes deferred for 14 years were realized for Mrs. Mary Taylor when she was given a divorce from Joseph W. Taylor, in Judge Booth's court in St. Paul, Minn. The hearing lasted about as many minutes as Mrs. Taylor had labored years to get together the money necessary to obtain freedom.

Her testimony was a prosaic recital of the "cruel and inhuman treatment" which she declared she suffered from her husband prior to Oct. 7, 1895, the date on which her complaint was filed.

Since then, she told the Court, she has not lived with Taylor, but has worked for her living all the 14 years endeavoring to accumulate sufficient funds to obtain a hearing of her sorrows from the court so as to obtain a release from the marital tie.

Never too Late to Wed.

It's never too late to marry, according to the Rev. J. A. Scarratt, of Alton, Mo., who, at the age of 82, has taken Miss Fannie Johnson, 54, unto himself as a wife. The pastor and his wife have been acquainted for 40 years in church work.

"A person is never too old to get married," declares the aged minister, "If he feels like it. I am well preserved, able to take care of myself physically and financially, and why should I not marry? I know some persons may scoff at an old widower marrying an old maid, but I shan't mind that. My close friends appreciate my viewpoint.

"One cannot have a homelike feeling of companionship without being married. The Bible sanctions marriage for that reason as for others. It is not good for man to be alone. I have no relatives. I had ten brothers and two sisters, but all of them are dead and descendants scattered.

"I have been boarding since my wife died—have changed my place of abode six times in four years. The people where I have boarded were kind, but that was not like having a home of one's own.

Master of Wit.

In a biography of Edward Mac Dowell by Lawrence Gilman, the writer quotes some of the famous musician's witticisms. On one occasions he had been told of a performance of his composition, "To a Wild Rose," played by a high-school girl on a high-school piano at a high-school graduation festivity. "Well," MacDowell remarked, "I suppose she pulled it up by the roots!

Some one sent him about this time relates Mr. Humiston, a program of an organ recital at which this same "Wild Rose" was to be played.

"He was not pleased with the idea, thinking doubtless of a style of performance which plays Schumann's 'Traumerei' on the great organ diapasons. He remarked simply that it reminded him of a hippopotamus wearing a clover leaf in his mouth."

A member of one of his classes at Columbia, finding more unoccupied space on the page of his book, after finishing the exercise page, filled the vacancy with rests. When his book was returned the page was covered with corrections—all except these bars of rests, which were inclosed in a red line and marked:

"This is the only correct passage in the exercise."—Youth's Companion.

Blind For 36 Years.

After suffering from total blindness for nearly 36 years Miss Annie Hubbard was recently restored to sight by an operation at the Royal Kent Ophthalmic hospital in London. She declares she is having an interesting time comparing the pictures conceived by the mind and the shapes as they are revealed by the natural eye. She became blind in 1873 when only three months of age.

Miss Hubbard says that at first she was dazed and giddy. She had always imagined human forms and faces to be much smaller and darker in color than they really are, and consequently she felt frightened at all the large people she saw with their great pale faces and hands. She was especially frightened at the first sight of a horse which seemed to her tremendously large and clumsy, and not less at the appearance of a street car.

In the country she was much more at ease; trees and hedges seemed natural to her. There is a pathetic touch in her statement that every morning when she wakes up she decides what she shall see for the first time.

What puzzles her most is to understand what people mean by the word ugly. A particularly ugly bull dog was brought to her but Miss Hubbard could not find him repulsive. On the contrary, the dog impressed her as being quiet strong and gentle.

Sugar Fraud Trial.

The first attempt in the courts to block the trial of the men indicted in the wholesale sugar frauds in the custom house in New York city has failed. Six of the first seven men indicted were arraigned for trial this week and the court overruled a motion to quash the indictment. Counsel for the defendants in making the motion, declared that the "statements in the newspapers were calculated to inflame the public mind."

Judge Martin, however, failed to see the thing in this light and ordered the trial to proceed. It is expected that the case will run two weeks and for this reason a great many prospective jurors made excuses for not serving. But the court refused to sanction the majority of these. Briefly the facts on which the prosecution rests its case as follows:

Two years ago, on Nov. 20, 1907, Richard Parr, then a special agent of the customs service, raided the Williamsburg sugar docks, and reported the discovery of fraudulent attachments to the scales used in weighing sugar imports. It was as one outcome of this raid that James F. Benderagle, former manager at the company's Williamsburg plant, and Oliver Spitzer, former dock superintendent, and three checkers and weighers employed on the docks at the time were indicted and brought to trial this week.

Before the means of determining the true quantity of alcohol in spirits were known dealers employed a very rude method to form a notion of the "strength." A given quantity of the spirit was poured upon gunpowder in a dish and set on fire. If the gunpowder continued dry enough it took fire and exploded, but if it had been dampened by the water in the spirit the flame of the alcohol went out without setting the powder on fire. This was called the "proof." Spirits which kindled gunpowder were said to be "above proof," those that did not set fire were said to be "below proof," but this did not fix the strength. Clark in his hydrometer, which was invented about the year 1730, fixed the strength of proof spirits on the stem, at the specific gravity of .920, at the temperature of 60 degrees. This is the strength at which proof spirit is fixed by law.

Miss Hubbard says that at first she was dazed and giddy. She had always imagined human forms and faces to be much smaller and darker in color than they really are, and consequently she felt frightened at all the large people she saw with

In the meantime the youngsters decided on a name of their own. One day last week Mr. Taylor went home and was met at the door by the two enthusiastic lads.

"We've got a name for him," they cried. "We are going to call him 'Rascal.'"

"In the view of subsequent events," said Mr. Taylor, "I think he is well named. He is worse than a burglar in the house. He has ransacked every drawer and wardrobe in the house and yesterday he either ate up or carried off my best neck scarf!"—Louisville Times.

At Saw-mill at Midnight

Unmindful of dampness, drafts, storms or cold, W. J. Atkins worked at Night Watchman, at Banner Springs, Tenn. Such exposure gave him a severe cold that settled on his lungs. At last he had to give up work. He tried many remedies but all failed till he used Dr. King's New Discovery. "After using one bottle," writes, "I went back to work as well as ever." Severe colds, stubborn coughs, inflamed throats and bronchitis. Hernia, Cancer, and Whooping Cough get quick relief and prompt cure from this glorious medicine. 50c and $1.00. Simple Home Remedies.

Often a simple home remedy will relieve a patient when the physician's methods fail. For severe cold and coughs, and even for pneumonia and consumption let a lump of sugar, which has been moistened with a drop of oil of tar, slowly dissolve in the mouth. This will clear the throat and give instant relief.

A remedy often recommended for stiff neck is to tie over the affected part a piece of black oil-cloth, the right side to the skin. Then tie up the neck with a thick handkerchief. In a short time the part will become moist. Leave the oilcloth on for 12 hours. At the end of that time the pain and stiffness should be removed.

For earache, instead of putting hot oil to the ear, use a hot mixture of glycerine, alcohol, and water. This will not turn rancid, like the oil, and can be removed by a gentle springing. A thick towel, wrung out of boiling water, furnishes an excellent means of applying heat to the aching member.

To prevent a cold when one is thoroughly chilled, cut up one lemon and add one-half cup of sugar and one tablespoonful of ginger. Mix well, pour boiling water over it, and drink while hot, just before retiring.

Senna tea is an excellent laxative that should be known in every household. Purchase ten cents worth of senna leaves from the druggist. Put in a cup as many as can be held between the finger tips, pour on boiling water, and allow the tea to steep until a dark brown in color. Drink hot or cold. Half a cupful each morning will keep the bowels in excellent health.

The Caspian Sea.

The Caspian sea is, as Herodotus said 2,000 years ago, "a sea by itself, having no confection with any other." Every schoolboy knows that now, but it is remarkable to find Herodotus saying so, because centuries after his time such authorities as Strabo and Pliny believed that it was connected with the northern ocean by a long and narrow gulf. Geography seems to have had a setback in the interval through false information received at the time of Alexander's conquests. Herodotus says that the Caspian's length was fifteen days' voyage with a rowboat, its breadth eight days'. Since the actual figures are 500 miles and 400, this shows that a rowboat of the time did fifty miles a day.—London Graphic.

Kentucky Turkeys in the East.

Mrs. D. C. Amos, of Oakland, Ky., is justly proud of the show record made by some of the Bronze turkeys sold from her yards. In 1906 she sold to Mr. Jas. E. Lord, of Stonington, Conn., a beautiful two year old tom, which Mr. Lord christened "Amos." At the Boston, Mass., show Amos won first in class and the mass special. In 1908 Mrs. Amos sold Mr. Lord a son of Amos, which was named "Dan Amos." This fellow also won first in class at the Boston show this year. "The February, 1909, issue of the Reliable Poultry Journal contained a fine picture of this great bird and pronounced him the "king of turkeys."

CHAS. S. HARRIS - EDITOR

Democratic newspaper devoted to the interest of the city of Columbia and the people of Adair and adjacent counties.

Mailed at the Columbia Post Office as second class matter.

The Christmas holidays will soon be here and then the accounts of accidents, brawls and misdeeds will appear in the papers resulting from overindulgence in merry-making, pleasure seeking or debauchery of some kind that has no kinship to an observance of Christmas day, the birthday of our Savior. That Christmas is a day for rejoicing, a day for spreading happiness and love, we have never doubted, but the extreme methods used by many to pass off the time by indulging in drink, de-throning reason and bringing sorrow and shame to others can not meet the approval of anyone, and fails in itself to make the participants happier or better. How silly, how foolish it is to seek pleasure by such methods, and yet some are inclined to do so when their experiences of the past warn against it. Christmas is a day for rejoicing, a day appropriate for gifts. A little gift to a friend revives the good will and produces pleasure that lingers in the mind, an asset both to the giver and receiver. Too often, however, we lavishly pour out our gifts on those having direct claim or who are in position to compensate us while the very poor and unfortunate are overlooked, left without a token of love from any one, to pass through merriment saddened and discouraged. The children look forward to the coming of Santa with restlessness, with hope, with expectancy. Some have no parents to provide for them, some parents are too poor to buy the little toys. Fortunately Columbia and vicinity have no destitute, nor indifferent fathers and mothers, so far as we know, yet there may be some, and if so, they should not be neglected. Ordinarily the good ladies of Columbia take charge of this work and the presumption is that they will do so this time. To buy presents requires money and no one in a position to give who believes in making the little ones happy, in giving gladness and cheer to those in needy circumstances, unable to change their condition, will hesitate a moment in contributing to a fund for such a purpose.

"Little Phil" Thompson, a native of Harrodsburg many years ago Congressman from the Eighth district, died in Washington, D. C., Wednesday morning, the 15th inst. He was stricken with hemorrhage of the stomach, was sick but a few hours. He was sixty-four years old and twenty-five years ago he was one of the best known men in Kentucky. He was first nominated for Congress in a convention held at Somerset, defeating the Hon. M. J. Durham by one-quarter of a vote. After serving three terms in Congress, he located in New York where he practiced law successfully. His remains were conveyed to Harrodsburg for interment.

Ex. United States Senator Jas. B. McCreary, of Madison county is the next man brought to the front as a Democratic Candidate for Governor. He is eminent; qualified for the position and should he consent to enter the race for the nomination, would be formidable. He was elected and served the State as Governor when a young man and he made a most excellent executive. He defeated for the Governorial chair Judge John M. Harlan, now a Supreme Judge of the United States Court, and their debate at this place is remembered by many old citizens.

The Louisville Times, the best afternoon Journal published in this country, will on Friday, the 31st of this month, send out the most complete newspaper ever published in the South or West. On the second page of the News can be found a synopsis of what the Times will contain. If you want a copy send in your order now. Five cents will bring it to you.

It will be remembered that Mrs. Osey W. M. Sneed was found dead in a bathtub at East Orange N. J., a few weeks ago. Her mother, Mrs. Caroline W. Martin, has been arrested and locked up charged with the murder. The killing of the woman was to secure life insurance.

THE NICARAGUAN REVOLUTION

Part Played by President Zelaya, Despot and Dictator.

NOW THE UPRISING STARTED.

Juan Estrada, Leader of the Movement, is the Prospective President. Side Lights on the Man Who Had Two Americans Summary Executed.

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.

Joe Samuels, Zelaya's president of Nicaragua, has been called the despatched under of Central America, it may turn out that he had two American citizens shot without proper trial or made mischief once too often. As an ordinary thing your Uncle Samuel does not care about the execution of Latin American revolutions, but when some two by four despots like Zelaya imagine he can shoot Americans in his return to his own country he was one of the young bloods and declaimed so violently against the government that he was sent to prison. President Barron of Guatemala, whose dream was to become head of all the Central American republics, an ambition that Zelaya himself afterwards entertained. The American who became a member of Zelaya's staff and was given to his death. Zelaya then returned to his own country, led a revolution and landed in the president's chair.

Nicaragua is about the size of New England and has less than a half million inhabitants, most of whom are Indians. In the old days it was called Mohammedan paradise, but if the followers of the prophet were here it would not be because their religion.

Nicaragua has its roads and in the interior is as primitive as in the days of Columbus. The principal industries are raising rice, tobacco, cotton and wool.

Zelaya has added one more occupation to those two—that of paying taxes. He is a great money maker and has amassed a private fortune of millions.

He is brave, however, has more than military ability and made of his army something more than the joke it is in some Latin American countries.

QUICKER TELEGRAMS NOW.

Device to Make a Telegraph Office Out of Every Telephone Station.

A revolutionary change in the telegraphic facilities of New York city was recently predicted by persons holding high office in the new merger of telephone and telegraph interests formed by the American Telephone and Telegraph company securing the Western Union. The messenger running, or more often walking, to the telegraph office with the dispatch is to be eliminated.

According to these plans, it will soon be possible for the telephone subscriber to write out his dispatch on an electric machine, which will reproduce it in the form of a telegram for the telegraph company. This will virtually make a telegraph office out of every telephone station and will add enormously to the facilities of the telegraph companies.

Persons in authority said that it would be only a short time before such a device would be placed at the command of all the large business houses of the United States.

It is believed that such an instrument can be supplied to large subscribers at virtually no extra expense, while it will be possible for small subscribers to have it at a relatively low cost.

The change will, it is believed, catch on with a direct telegraphic connection will not probably in any case exceed $100, in cases where from three to four hundred messages are sent each day there will be no extra expense. When the day comes when improvement will be to provide all telephone subscribers with almost instantaneous telegraph service, and there is no doubt that it will divert to the telephone company a large amount of traffic, the telephone subscriber will much larger expense over the long distance telephone system. One very important development expected to follow the working out of the alliance between the telephone and telegraph companies is the ultimate reduction in the expense of sending a telegraph message.

One of the highest officers of the telegraph industry said that the benefit to him would be possible if the telegraph company to accept messages on the basis of a twenty-five cent charge for a fifteen word message, instead of a ten word message.

WEDDING THAT WAS A POEM.

Ceremony in Epic Introduced by Middletown (N. Y.) Pastor.

A genuinely poetic marriage was the one at Calvary Baptist church in Middletown, N. Y., the other morning, uniting Clarence E. Crane, a young business man of Middletown, and Miss Leslie May O'Neil, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac M. Clark.

The Rev. John A. Courtright, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony, which was nearly all in poetry, and the bridegroom's father said that the promises to become a popular fit with those eligible for the ceremony. Mr. Courtright only recently assumed the pastorate of the church, and his remarkable innovation in weddings has been a decided hit.

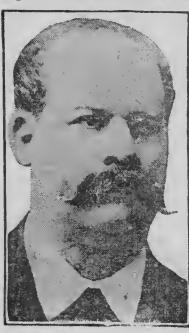

Memorial to a Great Geiser.

It was agreed at a committee meeting held in St. Andrews, Scotland, to erect a bronze panel representing the head and shoulders in life size of the late Tom Morris. The panel will be placed on the grassy bank of the stream which has caused the rushing of American gunboats to Nicaraguan waters and which occasioned the sharp note from Secretary Knox stating that the United States would not for one moment countenance such an aggression.

Apples do not grow without something to grow from. They need more in the way of fertility than they can draw from the sky or from the tired and worn-out soil. If this food is not supplied, the trees resent it by withholding their harvest. If your trees are not doing so well as they should, try 400 pounds of bone-meal and 200 pounds of muriate of potash per acre.

Looking One's Best.

JOHN HAYTON HILL.

the same high handed manner he does his own subjects it is time to put the fear of God into his heart.

Zelaya has been lord high boss of Nicaragua for sixteen years. That is not unusual, especially for a man who is more nearly descriptive of it than an official title. To be sure, he is known as president and is supposed to be elected every four years. But to be truthful—which is more important, at least to the disinterested circles—he put himself in by bayonet and has maintained his power by bayonet. True, the forms of an election have been gone through at stipulated times, but there was no opposition for the reason that everybody else had dared to be a candidate. Zelaya would have had him taken out and shot.

During much of the time he has been in power Zelaya has been engaged in putting down revolutions or in fighting some of the other Central American states. He has been involved in one of these annual uprisings or trying to do so at the time he got gay with the two Americans Leon Gruen and Alvaro Castro and had them shot on the spot. Somebody says it was a mistake and I assume it will be shot if he goes about it in a peaceful way, he tries to shoot first.

This uprising was started by the Estrada family, which had furnished some of Zelaya's chief officials. There were five of the Estrada brothers, but one of them is now dead. The youngest of the five, Juan Estrada, is the leader of the movement and the vice-president.

The two Americans Cannon and Gruen, who were large property owners in Nicaragua and elsewhere in Central America, joined the Estrada standard, and one of them was killed on the spot. Zelaya surprised the leaders of the army by crossing into Costa Rica and attacking it, and the two Americans were captured among others. Instead of being summarily executed, however, they were summarily赦免ed. This is what has caused the rushing of American gunboats to Nicaraguan waters and which occasioned the sharp note from Secretary Knox stating that the United States would not for one moment countenance such an aggression.

Zelaya is a Chronic Disturber. This is not the first trouble we have had with Zelaya, but on former occasions he has been driving some action on the pretense that the Spanish demands were aggressions. From well-authenticated reports that have come from his dominions he has revived the horrors of the Spanish Inquisition. He has tried to make a cheap composite of Torquemada, the Duke of Alba and Cipriano Castro. Zelaya is better educated than the son of a planter and having received his schooling in Paris. After

Where Money Fails.

"Money can buy anything," is a common expression, and, no doubt many people believe this to be true. And it is measurable true. But there are some exceptions. It couldn't buy the kind of social recognition the rich

Corey of Pittsburg wanted. Corey is president of the United States Steel Corporation and many times a millionaire. He started in poor and lived humbly with the wife of his youth until he got a good start. As he became richer and richer in material wealth he got farther and farther away from virtue. He became a stagedoor Johny, haunting the trail of a dancer, Maybelle Gilman, and fell to her charms. The wife of his youth was but away through the convenience of the divorce court and then there was another marriage by which Corey mated with his coryphe. Ever since this pair have been striving in vain for social recognition. They could buy some kinds of social recognition, but the kind they wanted has been steadily denied them. They tried to make headway by living abroad for a time, hoping to force an entrance to the social citadels of those considered themselves among the elect. They failed. They saw actresses—from chorus girls up to stars—who had married titles and who were received in good society. But society abroad would not accept the Coreys.

Now it is announced that Maybelle is going on the stage. She is unhappy. "Mrs. Corey's years of life on the stage, says a New York dispatch, "have made applause as the breath of life in her nostrils, and she misses it now. Surrounded by every magnificence, she finds the days dull and lonely. She is now sure that the future holds no promise of a change. To her such a life is uninteresting as playing a part in a brilliant little theater with not a soul in the audience.

The Coreys' new venture, which will not probably in any case exceed $100, in cases where from three to four hundred messages are sent each day, there will be no extra expense.

When the day comes when improvement will be to provide all telephone subscribers with almost instantaneous telegraph service, and there is no doubt that it will divert to the telephone company a large amount of traffic, the telephone subscriber will much larger expense over the long distance telephone system. A good grain ration for lambs is made as follows: Mix one-third part of oilmeal with one part each of bran, oats and fine cornmeal.

Red clover hay or the second cutting of alfalfa hay are the most desirable form of roughage. Of the two, alfalfa is to be much preferred.

Where Nature Cooks the Food.

In certain parts of New Zealand both native and white women use the natural hot springs to do their cooking. In the Rotorua region, it matters not whether the cook wishes to roast a piece of meat, boil potatoes or stream pudding, all she has to do is to step out of doors and place the cooking utensil in a steam hole. The cover is then put on, and a piece of coarse sacking over the whole completes the operation. In a short time dinner is ready. At Whakarewarewa the entire earth just beneath the surface is a mass of boiling springs. Millions of gallons of hot water hiss and steam sending vapors skyward in great white clouds. Strike the ground anywhere with a stick and the hole thus formed fills with hot water. Hot water for baths, the week's washing and for the ordinary purposes of the household is always on hand.

A Curious Trail.

All sorts of devices have been used to mark a line of march. A unique method of "blazing the trail" is still to be seen in Africa, and a recent publication prints a picture of one of these memoirs of the dervish raid. Arthur J. Hayes mention the subject in his "Source of the Blue Nile."

In 1889, after a fierce battle with the Abyssinians, the dervishes pursued their foes as far as the lake district. The mahdi's men had small knowledge of geography and little topographical intelligence. So the advance party, in order to make the route for those who came after and also to guide the force on their return journey, twisted the saplings along the way into living knots. The war ended, but the tied up trees grew and flourished, but uncouthly twisted and distorted, and are now the only reminders of that uprising of the dervishes.

Dickens and Diet.

Dickens is the novelist of the meal. No other writer, pile him up never such lists of delicacies fit for Lucullus, has the gusto in describing humble feasts which gives the very reader an appetite. Thackeray, for all his "Ballad of Bouillabaisse," never touched the hem of his garments in the recording of meals. Who that has read them can ever forget, for instance, Mrs. Camp's directions to the chambermaid for her nocturnal refraction, or the tea which awaited Joe Willett and Dolly on their return to the locksmith's dwelling on the occasion of Miss Migg's final rout, or the unassuming meals recorded in "David Copperfield," or the more pretentious feasts in "Pickwick," not forgetting the leg o' mutton "swarzy" to which Mr. Weller was invited by the elite of Bath footmen? And has not every reader of "Martin Chuzzlewit" allowed a tender smile to curl his lips over the evolution of that incomparable pudding in the preparation and consumption of which such damage was done to John Westlock's affections? So go and read—and acquire your appetite.—London Chronicle.

Another Big Strike On.

A big strike is on among the switchmen and other train employees on the big railroads of the Northwest. At St. Paul and Minneapolis traffic is practically closed, while the lines west of those cities extending to the Pacific Coast is more or less affected. In addition to the railroad employees, who are necessarily idle, the big flouring mills of Minneapolis have been compelled to close down because of inability to ship flour, and about 5,000 mill hands are thus thrown out of employment. Press dispatches report that the loss in wages to the mill men alone will amount to about $75,000 per week, and that the loss to the milling interests will amount to $700,000 per week.

Push Business.

Some people are always busy. They make for themselves business when the outlook is dull. They anticipate the quiet season by seeking new avenues of trade. In a word they push their claims for trade. If not occupied with real income-producing trade, the alert one is busy locating possible new customers. The many tradesmen seeks not to take away a satisfied patron of a rival; he seeks the dissatisfied and urges his attention by superior wares, more courteous and patient treatment and untiring effort to please. Advertising awakens interest, and the right care of a new patron is the means of bringing fruit from the publicity effort and making it a continuous after-source of moderate profit.—Macy Monthly.

Hard on the Chairs.

Among the ancestors of Wendell Phillips were several Puritan clergymen. Perhaps it was a push of heredity which made him at five years of age a preacher.

His congregation was composed of circles of chairs arranged in his father's parlor, while a taller chair with a Bible on it, served him for a pulpit. He would harangue these wooden auditors by the hour.

"Wendell," said his father to him one day, "don't you get tired of this?"

"No, papa," I don't get tired, but it is rather hard on the chairs."

Shank's Mare.

"I haven't got a limousine or any airplane; I haven't got a coach an six, not e'en a special train; I haven't got a bicycle yet a horse an team I git along all right by jinks, 'thout gasline or steam. I travel jest by shank's mare an never hev no fear but what I'll reach my stoppin' place the same day in the year. No artificial rigs for me, no busted tires or bones, no landin' all up in a heap upon the highway stanes. I may be slow a-gettin' round an' cause the world to stare, but I will git there by an' by all right side up with care."—Boston Herald.

Fall Spraying and Pruning.

A number of requests for information in regard to fall spraying and fall pruning reached Professor H. A. Surface, State Zoologist of Pennsylvania, recently. The following reply to one of the letters received will be of interest to owners of orchards everywhere:

"Replying to your letter asking if you must spray this fall for scale insects, I beg to say that it is not necessary to spray in the fall, but if your trees are much infested it is better to spray both fall and spring. If my trees were not badly infested, I should spray only in the spring when the buds are swelling. I consider this the best time of the year to spray, and of course, the boiled lime-sulphur wash, either commercial or homemade, is my choice of material.

"In regard to fall pruning I can say that this is as good as spring pruning, the pruning being done at any time when the leaves are off. If you will prune your trees this fall, you can then spray them at any time during the fall, winter or spring, and have good results in killing the scale. Thoroughness of spraying is necessary, and it will be easier for you to do a complete job after the trees are pruned and before. Also, pruning helps to put vigor into that part of the tree which remains."

Remedy For Co'd.

The owner of most flocks of hens has been troubled more or less with colds, in spite of the best care. The following remedy is a simple one, and one that you have at hand at all times. It is quite an old one, but is given for the benefit of those who have not tried it. Take a tablespoonful of lard, one teaspoonful of ginger and cayenne pepper, make into pills about the size of a small marble, using enough flour to stiffen. When the cold is first noticed, give one of these pills three times a day. If not sufficient, repeat. It is always well, even in what might seem a mild case, to separate the afflicted bird from the balance of the flock.—Southern Poultry Magazine.

Don't Go West.

Fully 7,180 persons hopelessly diseased with tuberculosis annually come to die in the States of California, Arizona, New Mexico, Texas and Colorado, most of them by order of their physicians. The statement which is based upon the testimony of well-known experts and all available statistics, shows that at least 50 per cent. of those who go to the Southwest every year for their health are so far advanced in their disease that they cannot hope for a cure in any climate under any circumstances.

More than this, at least 60 per cent. of these advanced cases are so poor that they have not sufficient means to provide for the proper necessities of life, which means are either starved to death or forced to accept charitable relief every year.

It is not an uncommon thing for whole families who can hardly eke out a living in the East to go West in the hope of saving the life of some member of the family. In most instances the abject poverty of such cases forces them to begin to live on a very low level.

Often consumptives who cannot afford the proper traveling accommodations are found dead on the train, before reaching their destination. The resources of almost every charitable organization in the Southwest are drained every year to care for cases which would be self-supporting in their Eastern homes.

Costs on an average at least $50 per month for the support of a consumptive in the Southwest, including some medical attention. The National Association strongly urges that no one go to this section who has not sufficient funds to care for himself at least one year in addition to what his family might require of him during this time. It is also urged that no persons who are far advanced with tuberculosis go to a distant climate. Consumption can be cured or arrested in any section of the United States and the percentage of cures in the East and the West is nearly the same.—Post-Graduate.

Case of Too Much Ham.

One morning not long ago there tripped up to a butcher stall in a Baltimore market a dainty little thing out for her first marketing.

"My husband bought a couple of nice hams from you not long ago" she announced.

"Yes'm," said the smiling butcher; "I remember well. Fine hams weren't they?"

They were delicious, said the young wife. Have you any more like them?

Lots, responded the butcher, indicating a row of hams in the rear of the stall.

The young thing surveyed the ham thoughtfully. Are you sure she finally asked, that they're from the same pig as that from which my husband bought?

"Yes'm," answered the butcher without so much as a quiver of an eyelid.

"Then you may send me three more of them," she said.—Pittsburg Post.
